Article published on July 7th 2012 | Home Improvement

The use of glass is common in households. While they lend a unique and opulent look to the dÃ©cor of a premise their cleanliness is an important aspect as well. Having stains and marks on the glass panels in any part can leave a blotch on the overall impression of home dÃ©cor. cleaning bathroom glass panels like shower glass, tiles and floors and even the mirrors is vital on a regular basis to prevent stubborn stains and marks. Each accessory has its own methods of cleaning that is both effective and safe. There are non toxic eco-friendly glass surface cleaners available to ensure perfect stain free surfaces.

Glass pool fencing is another long stretch of surface commonly available in homes. This is a very important inclusion for homes that have a swimming pool; it is a perfect solution for safeguards against children approaching the pool unnoticed. However at the same time cleaning the glass surface is also important. Stains and marks of water can be both stubborn if left unattended and blur a clear vision through the glass. There are eco-friendly non toxic cleaners available that give sparkling results. Another useful method is a cleanup done with liquid detergents and water. Follow it up with a complete wash with clear water. Once dry you can have it wiped for a polished look. glass pool fencing will also come with metallic railings and handles that can be cleaned in the same way or even sponge wiped with a liquid cleaner.

Cleaning bathroom glass panels like a shower glass is usually possible with a liquid cleaner available in the market. However a mixture of vinegar and baking powder followed by the use of water can work wonders on a sparkling result as well. This is a home remedy that can be used on other accessories of the bathroom like porcelain tiles, mirrors and washbasins too.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-improvement-articles/glass-cleaning-techniques-from-bathrooms-to-glass-pool-fencing.htm - Article Side

Julia Roger - About Author:
For more information on a cleaning bathroom, check out the info available online; these will help you learn to find the a glass pool fencing!

Article Keywords:
cleaning bathroom, glass pool fencing

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!