Why are glass splash backs becoming increasingly popular?

For generations, the only options for splashbacks have been tiles. Of course there is nothing wrong with tiles and they come in all different shapes and sizes, and they can really look fantastic. However in the last few years there has been a real growth in the use of glass splashbacks.

They really fit in with the modern look that has been the trend in the last few years with minimalist kitchens. With the smooth sleek lines and simple colours and designs of modern kitchens, tiles can often prove to be too involved and fussy for the modern look. Glass splashbacks are so simple, and they can come in a variety of colours to suit the rest of the kitchen.

What are the main advantages of glass splashbacks over tiles?

What many people fail to realise is that tiles can be incredibly expensive. Unless you go for the very cheap and basic white ones, you are essentially looking at quite a large investment. Then you have the expense of paying a tiler to put them up and the results are sometimes hit and miss. Buying glass splashbacks on the other hand could not be easier.

You can buy them on line and have them cut to your exact specification. With a wide choice of colours you can create a really funky and cool look that will bring out the best in your new kitchen. The installation of glass splashbacks could not be easier. Because they are already cut to size with holes for screws put in place, you simply put them in position and screw them on.

Where is a good place to buy glass splashbacks?

There are quite a few good places that you can go to for glass splashbacks; however it does pay to shop around as prices and quality can vary quite a bit. One place that is worth a special mention is called Splashbacksbypost.com. They have a fantastic range of colours available and the quality of their glass is second to none. When it comes to customer service and value for money, you will not find a better place for your glass splashbacks.
