Since ages, roman shades have been the best possible way of covering the windows and adding a bit of style in the room dÃ©cor. But the new thing in this kind of shades that is taking the world by storm is the cordless ones. Previously, even though roman shades were considered to be a great window solution, there were a few problems that plagued the homeowners and most of them were related to the strings and cords of the shades. The introduction of cordless shades has eliminated those problems and they have made it easier to have a home makeover. As there are no cords hanging here and there, these shades are safer for the children. You do not have worry about the children getting entangled in the cords anymore.

Multiple strings and cords from the shades pooling at the floor is not a pleasant sight at all. It makes the room look clumsy and untidy. Moreover it makes your room take up an appearance of a stuffed space and the area starts looking smaller. With the cordless roman shades, you can do away with those worries. Plus, they are easier to use. A spring gear is used to make the shades go up and down. No more trying to grab the string at the right place to fold the blinds. You can just grab a little tab that is attached to the shades and your work will be done. A major drawback of roman blinds was that the shades never used to say straight. The task seemed almost impossible at times. However, with the cordless shades, the pleats are always straight.

Now cordless blinds are also available in the top down bottom up shades variety. To say the least this kind of shades are beneficial for increasing the value and look of the interior of your house. They ensure maximum privacy in the room and soften the glare of the television and computer screens. They are extremely easy to clean and just a wipe with a clean cloth is enough to keep them in a perfect condition.

Using the top down bottom up shades is the most cost-effective way of stylizing the home dÃ©cor. They add color to the room and offer a fresh vibrant look. This kind of roman shades can be custom made very easily and by choosing to do so, you can alter the size, color and designs of the shades according to your preference. These shades are available in a few different types: cellular shades, woven shades, pleated shades, etc. The arrangement of these shades is really simple and they can be folded from both top and bottom. They are easy to install and the installation process does not take much time either. However, do not forget that a bit of research and ground work is extremely important before choosing the appropriate shade. First, be sure about what color and material you need. A careless choice of color, pattern, design or size will give your room a cluttered and disorganized look.
