Article published on December 13th 2011 | Home Improvement

One of the benefits of hot tubs is that they can be used year-round. If your spa will likely go unused during the winter season, however, draining it may be a good idea. Draining your hot tub for the winter months can eliminate operating costs, prevent algae growth, and save you from having to do aggravating maintenance in the freezing cold!

The first step to draining your hot tub involves turning on the jets. To remove any residue and mineral deposits from the inside of your spa, it is helpful to add a spa flush when you turn the jets on. Follow the flush directions to ensure you do this properly.

Next, you will need to turn off the power to both the heater and the pump. You will also be required to unplug your spa or throw its circuit breaker. Then, remove the cartridge from your spaâ€™s filter. Give it a good thorough cleaning and let it dry before storing it. This will help prevent mildew and extend the life of your filter cartridge.

Empty your hot tub of all the water. You can do this through the drain hose or by pumping the water out. Once youâ€™ve done this, remove all hoses from their fittings in order to drain the plumbing. Open the drain valve on your pump if it has one. To get rid of any remaining water, blow air through the jets with a wet/dry vacuum.

Next, use towels to dry up any remaining water in the spa. Wipe down the entire tub and allow it to dry completely. In order to protect your spaâ€™s surface from the elements, apply a generous coat of wax or vinyl conditioner. Finally, put the cover on your hot tubs. To further protect your spa from sustaining damage from the elements, it is a good idea to install a storage cover.

For more information on draining your spa for the winter season, visit Spa Bound Nanaimo today. Our trained experts can tell you everything you need to know about taking care of hot tubs in Vancouver. We carry the most reliable hot tub brands including Arctic Spas and Coyote Spas.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-improvement-articles/how-to-drain-your-hot-tub-for-winter.htm - Article Side

David Methew - About Author:
Spa Bound Nanaimo is also a prominent custom a pool builder in Vancouver. We will work with you to develop a pool design to suit your taste, budget, and backyard. As a top a patio builder in Vancouver, we can also provide you with a gorgeous patio area. Vancouver and Victoria Island residents can now have beautiful backyard spaces that are truly made for them! For more information, visit us online at http://www.spabound.ca/.

Article Keywords:
hot tubs, hot tubs vancouver, Patio builder vancouver

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!