With the globalization, life in 21st century has become easier and spoon fed. With the technology on rise, a lot of new applicants are introduced in the market.

One of the greatest technologies by man is the microwave oven. It is an important step in completing the modern kitchen. Cooking has never been so easy and fun. Microwave ovens made life easier for housewives. It runs on electricity and doesnâ€™t require the normal gas store. Now days, where people have no time to cook and eat, microwave solves the major problem especially for working family and bachelors. Till about couple of years back, a microwave oven was only used for heating the food but, still there are many people using a normal traditional microwave. Today in 21st century, the usage of microwave oven has changed drastically. It has speed, technology and perfect looks.

There are different types of microwave oven. The basic microwave oven is the traditional one, which only makes the food warm. The grill microwave is specially designed for grilling and roasting. The last but not the least, the conventional grill microwave oven where entire food can be made, there you can bake, heat and even grill your food.

There is a huge competition in the market to provide the best to the users. Among all the brands like LG, Samsung, Onida, Croma etc, there is a huge market for LG.

LG outstands for most of the electronic appliances in 2011. Next time, whenever you decide to gift your parents a convectional microwave, think about LG Microwave Oven as it looks classy in your modern kitchen. The features and technology are outstanding. LG microwave ovens prices vary according to the model and features. You have a choice to buy either a basic LG microwave, which doesnâ€™t cost much or convectional microwave oven.

The best LG microwave oven is LG Ms 1947 as it looks very sophisticated as compared to the other models in LG. This 19 liters microwave oven has 5pre-set menus with its soft touch programs which makes it easy to use. It has 5 variable cooking power levels and allows multistage cooking. It does have a safety lock especially for young children with quick start function.

The other model of 26 liters is LG Ms 767. It is convectional and grill in nature and is equipped with 8 pre-set menus and tractable programs. It offers multi stage cooking with auto defrost and 5 different cooking power levels. This model is highly suitable for Indian kitchen.

The above two are front runners in the race, but before you decide to buy a microwave, you need to do homework and choose according to your requirements. You need to keep certain criteria in mind like its size, usage, power consumption, its significance and your budget as well. So lets do some smart work rather than hard work for getting your own one touch solution.
