Selecting the Right Siding for Your home improvement Fairfax, VA Project by Roycemighty

Article published on December 6th 2011 | Home Improvement

Selecting the right siding when calling a siding and roofing contractor Fairfax, VA can be a little overwhelming at first, but if you just boil the whole process down to the facts, to exactly what you need on your home, the whole decision making procedure can be made a whole lot simpler. Of course, in some neighborhoods, there are certain restrictions in place and you might only have one option. If thatâ€™s you, you can skip this one. Otherwise, keep these factors in mind when selecting your housing siding.

Durability

Durability really is key. No matter what else your siding may be, if itâ€™s not durable, itâ€™s not worth much. Durability is different depending on where you live, though. Natural products such as wood siding will crack and rot over time if you live in an especially humid area, while vinyl provides less chance of that, but may eventually fade and become brittle after several years of use.

Appearance and Style

If you want your home to look good after the home improvement Fairfax, VA project, then color, texture and style are all very important considerations in selecting your home siding. Whether you want more natural, earth tones or you like art deco limes and turquoise colors, we should have something in stock for you.

Cost

The cost of your siding is important to keep your home improvement Fairfax, VA expenses down, but remember that if you are only concerned with getting the very cheapest siding available, then thereâ€™s no guarantee that itâ€™s going to last. In any event, you should really calculate the total costs. For instance, with proper care, wood siding wonâ€™t have to be replaced as often as the often cheaper vinyl alternatives, while stone can be expensive but might never need to be replaced. Consider the long term maintenance and repair costs, not just the purchase price.

Maintenance

How much time do you want to spend taking care of your siding? With vinyl and certain artificial wood and stone siding surfaces, you can get away with some pretty minimal care. Simply hosing them down when theyâ€™re dirty may get the job done more often than not. If you donâ€™t mind treating your siding properly with the right treatments and cleaning it on a regular basis, then you have a much wider range of siding options to choose from.

Thereâ€™s really no such thing as the â€œbestâ€• siding available, no such thing as the â€œrightâ€• cho objective standpoint. What works for you might not work for the next home owner, and every home is different.

This is why, at Kirby Kerns Inc., we strive not only to sell you the siding youâ€™re after, but help you determine exactly what siding that is in the first place. If youâ€™re ever curious, if youâ€™re at a loss or ju donâ€™t have the time to do all the research for yourself, never hesitate to ask for suggestions and tell us what really matters to you.
