Walls can build a style statement of their own. Conditional on the finish given, they can appear rustic, classy, traditional or creative. So it is essential to decide your wall finish, after giving careful consideration to the general atmosphere of the decoration.

Nowadays, interior designers and house-owners are going further than just paint for walls. They are opting from paper, fabric, wood paneling, plaster of Paris paintings, textured paint or plastering, to cladding with diverse sorts of wall tiles. Of all the choices accessible, one of the most cost-effective and trendy choice is wall cladding.

Wall cladding is the layering of a wall surface through tiles. While in the kitchen and restrooms cladding is done mainly for useful reasons, in other rooms of the house, tiles are utilized for a purely enhancing effect. There are different sorts of materials that can be used to clad the walls of your interiors, for instance, granite, marble, glazed clay, granite stone, sandstone, mirror tiles, pebbles, tile chips, imported tiles and broken glass. There are moreover man-made materials for example, acrylic-based aluminum compound panels that come in 2.5X8 ft size.

Granite and marble tiles are the typical selection for wall claddings. By means of their attractive shades, designs and shine, they provide an atmosphere of luxury to the house. They are preferably used in doorways, entrances, living rooms and dining rooms. Granite, being weather-resistant, is also a high-quality material to prefer for an outside wall, for example a verandah. If protected from rough usage, these natural stones are uncomplicated to sustain and last decades.

In the living room, the wall cladding makes an impact if it faces the entry door. Make use of lights suited to the sort of cladding. Soft lighting goes well with polished surfaces, while uplighting draws out the drama of a rough-hewn surface. Hang work of art that does not collide with the wall in material and atmosphere, for instance keeping away from plastic or glass items on brick tiles and raw-finished handiworks over shining granite. In the dining room, clad the wall that does not have a closet or bar in the bedroom, make use of cladding moderately as it can be overshadowing on a big scale. Besides, materials for instance marble and granite build a cold sensation and detract from the relaxation required.
