Why Introducing Recycling in the Office can improve the environment by Jabbar Karlee

Article published on March 6th 2012 | Home Improvement

Below is suggestions and advice from the team behind Ors-recycle.com on how to help the environment productively. Not only is this article useful it may also help your company to reduce bills considerably which can only be positive for you and your workforce.

A high percentage of people already recycle at home, so it wouldn't be too much of a change for your team. It is easy to set up and won't be expensive at all. Recycling of paper and other waste materials is the most preferred form of recycling in the office. This can decrease the amount of waste being sent to landfills and the amount of trees being cut down for paper. Inform your staff that it will happen, you might find that your office will look a lot less cluttered!

Being a green business also improves your image and you might find an increase in business from clients and customers. Your staff will take pride and care in their job if they work for a business that helps the environment, and the values of being eco-friendly. Not only can recycling improve your company image it can also make your team feel more valued and appreciated.

Before you start a recycling system within the office, construct surveys to see where in the office is most wasteful. The average office wastes a high amount of white paper so position recycling bins by the printers, this might also inspire employees to take extra care when printing off documents to make no mistakes. Also equip the kitchen with a range of bins for various materials such as cardboard, plastic and food waste.

Recycling can save a lot of businesses money, recycled waste collections are gratuitous whereas commercial waste disposal costs money. There are a number of other ways however that businesses can save expenses through recycling. When furnishing an office, instead of buying new furniture buy recycled. Office furniture Manchester will cost a fraction of the price will still look good.

There are a lot of office furniture recycling sites, especially Ors-recy```cle.com. These companies will even buy your old office furniture from you to recycle at a price allowing you to allocate your money elsewhere. Promote the idea of a carpool, printing double sided documents and to encourage customers to communicate via email rather than post. Provide reward schemes for employees that are the most enthusiastic, encouraging more members of staff to follow in their footsteps.

Being a more efficient and "eco-friendly" will generally improve your business, allowing the workforce to work together and for the company to save money. Raising awareness for the matter will allow staff spread the message and more companies follow in your footsteps, these small steps can make a significant difference not only to the working environment but also the environment on the whole.Promoting green living can also be a great way in which to get your employees and co-workers to take it out of the office into their own homes. Thus having a greater impact on looking after the environment.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-improvement-articles/why-introducing-recycling-in-the-office-can-improve-the-environment.htm - Article Side a Office furniture Manchester - I have a particular skill for solving problems and I like to work within an ethos of logic and professionalism. I have a good backlog of previous work and have worked on large and more independent schemes either on my own or as part of a bigger team. I also have a large amount of creative flair and remain professional and efficient in high pressure situations.

Jabbar Karlee - About Author:

Article Keywords:
Office furniture Manchester, Used Office Furniture in Manchester, Greater Manchester, office furniture, Manchester office appliances

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!