Article Side
Your in Austin, So what is Your Fences by DJ Willis

Article published on July 6th 2012 | Home Security

Wood

One of the most popular product options that lots of Austin fence companies offer is the wood fence. The wood fence is an extremely popular option for residential customers who wish to have a fence that may give a amount of privacy. At the same time, they do not desire to use a kind of fence that will detract in the look from the neighborhood.

The fence can be as much as eight feet in height which can provide for lots of privacy from accidental prying eyes. Simultaneously, the fence could be decorated with a lattice or other things in order to make the fence look a little more attractive to everybody in the neighborhood. Overall, this can be a great choice for residential customers.

Iron

The iron fence is another great choice from Austin fence companies for commercial and residential customers. This type of fence is designed to look good and does isn't intended to enhance privacy. However, this is a great way to keep children and pets within a contained area.

This is a popular choice for public spaces such as swimming pools where it's important to possess some kind of a protective barrier while allowing outsiders to look inside. An excellent advantage with the iron fence is it is very sturdy and does not require much maintenance from the home owner. That is why a lot of residential and commercial customers just like the iron fence option.

Chain Link

With regards to providing for security, the chain link fence is preferred by many commercial clients of Austin fence companies. A chain link fence which has barbed wire at the very top will probably be hard for thieves and other criminals to bypass. Razor wire is another great option for keeping the criminals out.

You will find places where chain link fences are desirable with no extra security. A very common example is really a baseball field or park. The function of the fence is always to offer a specific playing area where parents and others can view. The function of the chain link fence doesn't necessarily need to be for security.

Gates

Many customers should also think about the requirement for gates when buying almost any type of fencing from an Austin fence store. The gate will usually be similar in material to whatever the remaining fence is using, although that isn't always true. For instance, a multitude of locations will have a concrete wall which has a gap utilizing an iron gate or perhaps a chain link gate.

With regards to gates, there are many possibilities. Among those options for those who need enhanced security is a security keypad. This will make the gate not open until the correct security code is typed in. It is also possible to have the gate locked with a remote system that allows for unlocking from the inside. Many wealthier homes and commercial customers have this type of security on gates.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-security-articles/your-in-austin-so-what-is-your-fences.htm - Article Side

DJ Willis - About Author:
With more than 30 years of experience under our belts, A-Z Fence is known for quality workmanship, professionalism and personal service. We have worked hard to become a top name in the a Austin fence industry and beyond, developing relationships with customers to establish a reputation as reliable, knowledgeable fencing experts. Few a horse fence companies can match our dedication to integrity and craftsmanship.

Article Keywords:
Austin fence, horse fence

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!