There is a famous saying which complements the word Life Insurance and i.e. "Insurance is not for the person who dies, it is for those who survive". An insured life assures you that any possible event in your life will not weigh down the life of your children and they will have similar living standards as they are having in your company.

If you are a main source of income of your family, in that case it is very essential to acquire life insurance plans which go well with your family the most. Nobody can anticipate the possible occurrence in their lives; it might happen in the form of sickness, accident or loss of material goods. Therefore, it is sensible to have a sufficient coverage of risks linked with your being, so that your children should not bear any problems.

In today's time if somebody loses their loved ones, in that case they will have to be psychologically as well as monetarily strong, with the intention that nobody can mistreat or take an advantage of the limitations of the family. Therefore it's our responsibility to cover our life when we are alive so that our children could stand on their own with the same esteem as they had when we were alive. There are lots of responsibilities related with a person, particularly when he is the main source of income of the family like schooling of children, every day domestic needs, old age parents' responsibility etc. An uninsured life makes a person careless towards his responsibilities; therefore to be a dependable and trustworthy person towards your family, do insure your life.

There are lots of plans obtainable of life insurance in India, which eventually puzzles people. Hence, it is very essential to have one essential thing in your mind while selecting any insurance policy: You should first give attention to the risks which surround you at the present time or which may surround you in the upcoming days, So that you are able to plan accordingly and grab the best alternative possible for you.

In general, basic plans offered by any life insurance company of India can be categorized under three broad groups: pure insurance products identified as Term Plans, pure investment products identified as Pension Plans and investment-cum-insurance products identified as Endowment, Money-back, Whole-life and Unit Linked Insurance Plans (ULIP).
