2012 Trends in Mirrors and Decorating by Eric Blair

Article published on March 1st 2012 | Interior Design

Professional designers are predicting a wide range of inexpensive, creative looks in home decorating this year. Today, people are more cost-conscious than ever, making styles in home dÃ©cor more artistic. This year you will see exciting mixes in patterns, textures, and colors. Wall murals and painting will continue to rise in popularity, as people spend less on pricey art. Homeowners will be wanting to make statements in the cheapest ways possible.

The most popular style for 2012 will be restoring old furniture. All you have to do is watch a design show on television, and you will see that professional designers are now hitting yard sales and thrift stores for unique things that can be easily restored. This is the most cost-effective way to add stunning pieces and make changes to your place. To make old things look new again, all you need is some upholstery and a little paint. This will give you unique pieces that no one else will have. This is a trend that will just continue to become more and more popular.

You will begin to see more color, fabrics, and textures mixed together to add an eclectic look to places. A big trend this year will be bits of bright, vibrant colors added to neutral homes. The texture and fabric fad will become more special and interesting. You will get more fabrics in houndstooth, iridescent metallics, tweed, and plaid. Another major trend will be big prints and patterns. The real trick will be to fit these different hues, textures, and fabrics all together to create a fun and interesting look.

Wall murals and mirrors will be a popular trend in affordable decorating. Consumers on a budget will look to decorative wallpaper murals. Today, it is easy to find wallpaper in unique prints such as cities, nature, and even famous artwork. Mirrors are always a cheap and easy way to really make a place special. There are a wide range of round wall mirrors to choose from, including modern, antique, and black or even oval wall mirrors. Mirrors are particularly popular in little spaces because they create depth and light.

This year it will be easier than ever to design on a budget and follow the styles. 2012 brings gorgeous home design trends for anyone on a budget. With the right textures, colors, and items, the inside of your home will look like you spent a lot of money on it. These trends work really well for apartments and small spaces. This year, be unique and bring fun and joy into your place with these new trends.
