Bring Home a Mahogany Bookcase by Phil Marsh

Article published on July 17th 2012 | Interior Design

There is something truly enchanting about having a nice piece of Mahogany furniture in your living room, say in the form of a bookcase. The problem, however, could be its cost; not everybody can afford solid Mahogany furniture in his/her home; but, then, there is a solution – opt for Mahogany veneers.

What are Mahogany Veneers?

Veneers are nothing but thin shavings obtained from lumber, that are glued to core panels to produce panels of different shapes and sizes such as veneer door table tops and furniture. As such, Mahogany veneer sheets are thin layers of Mahogany wood that can be used to cover other types of less costly wood. Hope you're getting the point! Now, if you don't feel like breaking your bank account to bring home a solid Mahogany wood Bookcase, you can opt for Mahogany veneer sheets and get the same feel and look in your living room area.

Additional Considerations

Once you're sure that Mahogany veneers fit your specific requirements and budget, it's time you consider a few additional items. The first thing that you may like to consider is 'how you want to use your bookcase'. If you're kind of person who want the visitors to have their attention on your prized book collection, make sure you get home a bookcase with at least 5 shelves. If, however, you want the visitors to focus on something else, you need to determine how much space it occupies and adjust the required number of shelves accordingly. You should also plan out the space in the room (where you'll keep the bookcase), before you go out and make payment for the bookcase.

Cost

As compared to a solid Mahogany bookcase, veneers give you a very cost-effective solution; you get the same feel and look but at a lesser cost.

Decorative veneers come in various shapes, forms, designs and textures, so you can pick up the color and design that compliment your interiors. If you're not sure as to which color and design you should go for, friends and family can help; there are interior decorators as well.

If you haven't any bookcase in your home or want to replace the old one with a new one, consider a bookcase with Mahogany veneers; it'll add a touch of class to your interiors. And, you can also impress your visitors, without putting in much of efforts.
