We are in times when ambience and decor are given equal importance when it comes to planning the interiors of a restaurant. In fact, it is a great crowd-pulling anchor, used very effectively in marketing and advertising the place. Not just the decor of the eating area, but every section of the restaurant and its decor are given equal importance. The trend is to rate the overall ambience of the place, and kitchens play a great role in that.

In our series of articles on how to do up a commercial space, in this write-up, we will discuss decor essentials of a restaurant kitchen.

Sturdy kitchens are always rated high â€“ Yes, the smarter and sturdier your restaurant kitchen is, always brings out the best. If your kitchen looks worn out, crowded and messed-up, half the battle is lost in the first look itself. Rather, if your restaurant kitchen looks clean and apposite, accommodates all your chefs just right, and has the right things at the right place, then you have done a good job for a first impression.

In order to ensure that your restaurant kitchen is prim, proper and petite, use laminate counter top. Counter tops, you must be aware by now, are high functional horizontal tables for your kitchen where most of the cutting, chopping and cooking related activities take place. Durability is another reason why you should use counter tops. An investment that will last you for years, laminate counter top is uniquely designed making it extremely water-resistant. Therefore, no water seepage means no internal damage due to bacteria proliferation inside the surface.

No room for cracks, marks and ugly spots â€“ Cracks on the laminate counter top surface, ugly marks here and there take away from the beauty of your kitchen. We suggest you go for kitchen furnishing that gives you the strength and quality to last long with the exquisiteness that exudes style all through.

When looking for a combination of all these features, nothing better than the solid surface countertops. We have mentioned this before, that countertops are extremely functional furnishing elements of a kitchen. Particularly when it is a professional kitchen, they make for a good 80 percent of the kitchen furniture. Therefore, compromising on the look and quality of the countertop would mean compromising with the core qualities of a professional kitchen. Solid surface countertops on the other hand would give you the advantage of strength, durability and beauty, all in one. Extremely resistant to high pressure, now you can forget those ugly cracks that used to appear on the surface of your kitchen countertops right under the microwave oven. Gone are the days when one had to be cautious before resting a hot utensil on the surface. With solid surface countertops, you can be rest assured.

Last but not the least; remember to ensure the kitchen is well ventilated and illuminated. You do not want coughing and fretting chefs to welcome your guests in case they express the desire to see your kitchen (before booking a restaurant for big parties, clients always do this). Also, make sure that there is enough natural light entering the kitchen, during the daytime, natural lights brighten up moods and lift spirits making people working in the kitchen feel good. For evenings, pay keen attention to kitchen lighting so that the workforce enjoys the act of cooking.

In this write-up, we have mentioned very basic steps by which you can upgrade your kitchen standards and make a style statement. If you have any specific queries related to professional kitchen decor, do write to us.
