Roman Shades have been with us for more than a hundred years now. With time, these window dressing solutions have become better and stylish. Today, there is a lot of choice in terms of numerous designs, patterns, colors, styles, color combinations, materials, etc. These roman shades not only provide a touch of elegance and style to a place, but also elevates the mood and decor of a place. Apart from lending great looks to any place, these window blinds also serve a greater utility purpose as well. Faux wood or Natural Wood Blinds can also work in providing certain degree of insulation to the room.

The faux wood blinds are certainly a lot more popular than the far more expensive natural wood blinds. These are economical as well as maintenance free. They also offer high water resistance quality and therefore are an excellent substitute for the natural wood blinds. Unlike the natural wood blinds that are made from pure wood panels, these are made out of PVC. These are usually made from manmade materials and come in a variety of combinations, like small wood residues and particles that render a more natural look and sheen to these blinds. The faux wood blinds look just like the natural wood blinds and look very elegant and modern.

These blinds can be installed anywhere, but as these are made out of water resistant materials, so these are also ideal for being installed in kitchen and bathroom areas. These have a high resistance to humidity and are therefore, very durable as well. These blinds can take care of the decorative needs of these two most vital areas of a home. These faux blinds are no doubt a very practical option and are of high value in context of durability also. These blinds are extremely popular also because it is very easy to clean and maintain its new look for a long time. There is no risk of mildew or wrapping involved with these also. The faux wood blinds are also resistant to scratches and therefore, are ideal for any place that has small children.

There are endless options available in window dressing. One can opt for very attractively made roman shades also. These shades have been in use for quite some time. They are used mostly to cover up the windows in a very stylish and elegant way. One can choose the right kind of roman shade to match up with the interiors of any place, be it office or home. These shades can instantly add a high glamour factor and style to any place. Apart from the faux wood blinds and the natural wood blinds, Roman Shades also score very high on the scale of style and elegance for window dressing solutions. They come in distinctive eye catching and attractive patterns. These are very easy to operate and the mechanism is enabled with chords that make it easy to open and close these shades. These roman shades are readily available in the market, but one can have custom made roman shades as well. These shades can be bought directly from the market or can be ordered on the internet as well.
