Getting a great crystal lamp by Jerry Williams

Article published on March 5th 2012 | Interior Design

Picking a good quality crystal lamp is not really an easy task, but using a few simple tips can help you make the right choice. There is a huge variety of them available such as those that come with a wrought iron base or others that are more contemporary in nature. Choosing crystal lamps with different bases will help you match it to the kind of dÃ©cor you plan to introduce it in. The current trend in interior dÃ©cor is moving away from metal light fixtures to those of transparent, crystal-like qualities to enhance the beauty of a room.

One of the places crystal lamps are used in a formal setting. This would be a room like the dining area or in the halls leading to guest rooms or even living rooms that are large in nature. One of the first things you need to do before you even try to picture a crystal lamp for your room is measure its dimensions. The size of the room is integral to the kind of lamp you decide to go for. It should not be too big or too small and should fill the space allotted for it easily. To measure your room, start with the floor area and then move to the distance there is between the floor and the ceiling. If your ceiling is not too high, the choosing a large crystal lamp is not a good idea. This is where the getting an accurate height is needed. If the piece is meant for your dining room, then it would be best to measure the distance between the table and the ceiling. This will give you a good idea on the size of the piece to buy.

You can get the best out of a crystal lamp by ensuring that it is placed in the right area. This spot will of course depend on your taste, the current dÃ©cor you have going and the spot you have chosen for it. The design of your lamp should be such that it fits in unobtrusively in the design of your home.

There are several looks that you can achieve with a crystal lamp and the choice available is such that you will easily find one you are looking for. It would be a smart thing to go to a well known lamps retail outlet to make your choice. If you could get one of them to evaluate your room, you would be able to make a better choice.
