How to do up your home â€“ Bedroom By Smith

Article published on February 10th 2012 | Interior Design

The concept of â€˜my own spaceâ€™ is highly talked about and promoted. Be it ones private life, ones office or even ones home, everyone everywhere is looking to carve out a niche space for themselves that has every element of peace and comfort. And when talking about this, which other place but your bedroom is what flashes in front of your eyes.

In this series of articles dealing with home renovation, we will discuss bedroom decor through this write-up. How to turn your bedroom more comfortable and fashionable is what we are going to address.

Bedrooms should be high on the comfort quotient â€“ Comfort is the keyword here. After the stress and anxiety of the whole day, there cannot be a thing more comfortable and soothing than entering a tastefully done bedroom. It instantly fills one up with energy and enthusiasm. Its strange how stress just flies out of the window the moment one enters a comfortable bedroom.

There are a few elements that add to the comfort quotient of the bedroom and furnishing is the primary factor. If a bedroom is smartly furnished, then thereâ€™ll be more room for movement and comfort will follow automatically. A heavily done-up bedroom with huge beds, large cupboards, chairs that block the passage would only lead to mess. Rather a bedroom with a comfortable bed that looks great with its laminate counter tops finishing, will accentuate the overall look of the room.

A sofa set designed to complement the bed would act as the icing on the cake. Furthermore, if you use abstract laminate to fine-tune the look and customize the design according to your choice, it is only going to make things look better.

Free space is a pre-requisite â€“ In order to make your bedroom appear fashionable, use furniture thatâ€™ smart & sturdy and leaves more space for activity inside the bedroom. We suggest, rather than going for center tables and side tables for your sofa and bed respectively, go for counter tops. Available in variety of shapes, sizes and designs, counter tops are the perfect replacement to a table serving the same purpose and adding more value to the product.

Made of richly textured wood laminate, counter tops can be customized to fit the available space in a particular room. Therefore, the issue of over-clogging your bedroom is addressed here. On the other hand, wood laminates available in various abstract and natural textures like prunes, rustics, couture, bamboo, paisley etc. offer a great range when in comes to using laminates for decorative purpose. If you are looking for bedroom furniture thatâ€™s stylish and durable at the same time, then the decorative laminates are your pick for the counter tops, sofa and bed.

If you are planning to re do your bedroom then these few tips may really come handy. Let us know your feedback on this and for more on home renovation keep tracking this space.
