How to hang you canvas prints by Andrew Bourke

Article published on May 10th 2012 | Interior Design

Your very excited about getting your new canvas print or you might be ready to start looking for a photo on canvas prints to hang on your living space walls but youâ€™re not overly sure what size canvas print to get or how to go about hanging them, well itâ€™s really not that hard but there is a few tips that I can share with you to get the job done properly.

Firstly you will need to make sure that the image you have is a big file or a high resolution image file that the printer canvas print from, a good way to check would be to put you photo image on your computer and then right click the image, then go down to the image properties and check the details and you will see the file size which will say so many megabyte if kilobyte and the best sort of image file will be over one megabyte, if you have this then rest assure that the canvas printer will be able to produce the most brilliant of canvas printing with your photos or photo if itâ€™s the one canvas prints youâ€™re looking for and that size of thing you donâ€™t have to worry about.

Next step would be choosing the size of the canvas print that you want to have your photo produced on. A good way to approach this would be clearly to see how big your budget is as canvas prints tend to be a good value due to the workmanship that goes into them and the material cost that is involved to so if you have a low budget then you can either shop around for a certain size or it might be better to go for a medium or small canvas print to start with just so you can see the quality and get an idea of what a bigger version would look like. So once you have established your budget then you will need to measure the wall space that you want your canvas print to go in, so that its not too big or not to small in that area. One you have the measurement then itâ€™s up to you to browse the online website that provide a canvas printing service for the canvas print size you need. If they donâ€™t have the size on their website then more than likely the canvas printers will have some kind of custom size service were you can purchase a canvas print at the size you request and a brilliant price. Now thatâ€™s a great service already if they can do that for you.

So thatâ€™s all there is to it. Establish the image or images that you want printed, measure the size canvas print that you want in the wall space that is available in your home or office even as canvas prints are becoming more and more popular around the work place to, then once you have all this information then simply send it to the canvas printer or even simply order through their website and then let the professionals work their magic for you.
