Forex Affiliates Program â€“ Various Revenue Schemes to Consider

by Thomas Lowell

Article published on February 3rd 2012 | Investing

Forex affiliates program is a type of advertising scheme planned to catch the attention of more and more individuals towards the products or services of foreign exchange brokers. As with any associate programmes, there will be a compensation for the forex affiliates every time they are able to persuade currency traders to utilize the services of the broker. The member can resort to many different techniques to draw in people like links, banners and so forth supplied by the broker. According to the kind of associate technique, when people click on the referral link, it shows that they have been referred to by a particular member and the reckoning for compensation starts up.

In recent times, most of the forex associate schemes are web-based, so there is no necessity for large workforce or office building. All that is required would be the customers and internet sites that can be presented to fellow traders for clicking on the exclusive link that suggests the worthy associate. However, how the brokerage firm gives reward to its forex affiliates is dependent upon the agreement between the broker and associate.

There is Cost per Active Account or CPAA in which the member receives a one-time compensation for all the active traders he/she refers to the brokerage company. When the referred customer attains the required amount of trading, the member of the forex affiliates program will get a specific sum of money in his/her CPA account.

In revenue sharing scheme, for each registered prospect regardless of the deposit done to open an account, the associate will obtain a particular amount for every typical lot bought and sold. When the referred customer accomplishes the required trading level, the member will get a certain sum in his/her revenue sharing account.

Moving on, everybody can be gratified in a hybrid plan. It is a mix of the aforesaid revenue schemes, in which the forex affiliates can receive a flat payment for every trader they refer, in addition to a continuing reward on the basis of the trader's trading size. If you are not certain regarding what is more advantageous for you, opt for this attractive plan right away. This can prove to be the finest option for you to derive immense benefit from your association.

One more lucrative forex affiliates program is becoming an IB or introducing broker who enjoys a direct connection with a customer, but allocates the tasks of the trading process and execution to a different foreign exchange broker. The magnificent benefit of becoming an IB is that it heightens the effectiveness and brings down the burden of managing a trading room and sustaining the technology. It permits the IB to concentrate on the customer whilst the brokerage company takes care of the trading activities.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/investing-articles/forex-affiliates-program-various-revenue-schemes-to-consider.htm - Article Side

Thomas Lowell - About Author:
Thomas Lowell is an experienced foreign exchange trader and recommends YTFX Affiliates that offer the best a forex affiliates program online for great incomes. Become their a forex affiliates and avail numerous benefits in the form of attractive commissions.

Article Keywords:
Forex Affiliates, Forex Affiliates Program

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!