Your babyâ€™s needsâ€™ can be a budget killer. Your babyâ€™s formula milk, baby bottles and diapersâ things can be really expensive. And they can burden you even more if you donâ€™t know the right tips and tricks. One of the things you can do to help your family budget is to save on your babyâ€™s diaper. Hereâ€™s how:

Find free diapers.

You will most likely find free diapers in health centers located in your barangay. Contact them and ask how you can avail of the freebies. You can also get free diapers from your paediatrician. Every visit, ask your doctor for free samples. Most of these health centers and clinics not only give diapers, but medicines and vitamins for babies as well.

Buy in bulk and wholesale.

Considering how many diapers your baby consumes in a month, buying in bulk at wholesale stores can really save help you save. Items bought in bulk are a lot cheaper. Plus, you will also be saving money on gas/fare for making lesser trips to the grocery store.

Use a cheaper brand.

Instead of using expensive brands, you can use brands that are not as popular as the ones you see on TV.

Use lampin.

Using cloth diapers or lampin will do wonders to your family budget. It is environmental friendly, washable and re-usable but it requires extra work from you as you need to wash them every day.

Ask family and friends to give diapers as gifts.

You canâ€™t go wrong with this. Baby shower, baptismal party, birthday partyâ€”these events are perfect you want to ask your friends and family to give you diapers as gifts.

Focus on quality.

The real deal is the quality of the diaper. If you notice some leaks just 2 hours after changing your babyâ€™s diaper, then the brand youâ€™re using may not be effective. Usually, the leaks can cause diap rash so you may need to change your babyâ€™s diaper more often.

Being a parent is one of the most amazing things life can offer. So do not let your financial issues get in the way! Save on the little things now and experience a wonderful parenthood!
