Article Side
Know about your Tax Relief Claims by Robert William

Article published on March 27th 2012 | Investing

With the financial year coming close to end, are you concerned about claiming tax relief in the right way possible? If tend to be self-employed then, chances of such concerns arising in your mind are high. Well, do not despair, as you can claim a relief upon your allowance and expenses to lessen your tax bill considerably.

It is to be remembered that you can deduct various expenses and running costs attached with your business to earn profits, but taking away your private expenses is never a prospect and is not favoured by the govern

ent. In addition, it is also to be remembered that you can claim reliefs on specific â€œcapital itemsâ€• â€“ a off-cost that you use to buy or improve assets for business use.

When can your Claim a Tax Relief?

It is to be noted that you can claim tax reliefs for the present financial year along with the preceding four years. However, in some cases, the claim period can reduce considerably. Therefore, if you have been concerned about making the right tax relief claims being a self-employed or a business person then, it is essential for you to know about the various expenses that you can claim and the ways of making the claim.

Knowing the Expenses

If you are in the mind of starting with a business venture then, it is important for you to know about the things related to claiming tax relief. Usually, people who are self-employed tend to have a varied range of expense and running costs associated to the business. You can well consider deducting these expenses from the income you draw to reap a good amount of profit. Additionally, you might also avail a â€˜capital allowanceâ€™ for other specific costs attached to your business like, machinery and other equipment to lessen the taxable profits.

Knowing a bit about Allowable Expenses

Well, allowable expenses are nothing, but costs that you eventually end up paying in the run of earning profits. Usually, you can consider claiming a tax relief on such allowable expenses. Well, it is to be remembered that you cannot seek a claim for personal or non-business items. Improving or buying capital items like machinery and business equipment that have a lasting use does not fall under the category of taxable business expenses. However, you can well claim a relief for them, as they are related to your business purpose.

Since, claiming relief on your tax is a complex issue and requires extensive knowledge on the same, seeking help with tax from expert professionals is always advisable.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/investing-articles/know-about-your-tax-relief-claims.htm - Article Side

Robert William - About Author:
Robert William, a writer by choice and profession offers a comprehensive idea on all issues about taxation. Therefore, be it for a claiming tax relief or a help with tax advice is just a click away. For more information on tax and tax related issues, he recommends you to visit a http://www.u-tax.co.uk/.

Article Keywords:
claiming tax relief, help with tax

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!