Article Side

About Hamilton, Bulova and Raymond Weil Watches by James Paul

Article published on January 11th 2012 | Jewelry

Wondering why people are mostly interested in Swiss watches? Then read this article to learn about the famous Swiss wrist-wears that simply makes people crazy. Bulova and Raymond Weil Watches happen to be some of the unique timepieces created by the Swiss makers. To be precise, when you are looking for perfect Swiss wrist-wears, nothing could have been better than these above mentioned ones. Watch lovers are crazy about such brand names because they manufacture the most unique timepieces. Whichever product you choose, you will find that each of the Swiss watches portray the symbol of uniqueness and high-powered designs.

If you are looking for perfect Swiss luxury watch then go for Raymond Weil Watches. Founded in the year 1976, the company is one among those independent brands of Swiss watch industry. Created by the famous watchmaker Raymond Weil, this watch-making company has been manufacturing great timepieces since its inception. After his son-in-law became the CEO & president in the 90s, the company introduced more updated and unique designs. Now with Pierre and Elie Bernheim, the third generation, the company has been creating wonders in the market.

The company started with the Amadeus collection in 1983. Soon in the year 1986, the Othello collection was launched. The timepieces have ultra-thin feature, which has been playing a great role in the worldwide achievement of Raymond Weil. Soon in 1988 and 1991, the Traviata and Parsifal collection was launched consecutively. The Travita collection mainly spoke about the traditional aesthetic tastes. This way, the company went on producing some of the best avant-garde collection till date.

When you are looking for both precision and style, then Hamilton Watches will be the ideal pick. The company was initially setup to manufacture high quality wrist-wears and pocket watches. Hamilton is in fact an American watch-making brand with Swiss movements. It is known for producing quality mechanical and quartz wrist-wears. Founded in the year 1892, the companyâ€™s main objective was to create high quality watches. The companyâ€™s first initiative was to introduce railroad watches. It was in 1917, when Hamilton introduced its first line of pocket watches, called â€˜Watch of Railroad Accuracyâ€™. Most importantly, the company has been playing an important role in the sectors of digital technology, cinema, and aviation. It is the perfect combination of Swiss technologies with the pure American spirit that made the business quite popular.

If you are looking for some exotic Swiss watch collection then Bulova Watches can be the ideal pick. Being one of the prominent Swiss watchmakers, Bulova has been manufacturing timepieces since 1875. Watch lovers mostly prefer this brand, because it produces the most accurate timepieces of the industry. The demand for such quality timepieces had its rising growth since 1912. In order to cater to the demand, the entrepreneur founded his first factory to produce more unique watches. It was in 1919, when the company launched its first series of jeweled watches exclusively for men. This way, the innovative and creative team kept on producing more distinctive pieces in the market.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/jewelry-articles/about-hamilton-bulova-and-raymond-weil-watches.htm - Article Side

James Paul - About Author:
To know more about a Raymond Weil Watches, a Hamilton Watches, and Bulova Watches log on to a lesliewatch.com, the authorized online store.

Article Keywords:
Bulova Watches, Hamilton Watches

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!