Few Gorgeous Designs for Diamond Sapphire Engagement Rings by Vishnu Batwra

Article published on April 4th 2012 | Jewelry

A few dazzling diamonds when engraved along with a sparkling sapphire stone in a beautiful ring design make gorgeous sapphire engagement rings. The occasion being very personal, a touch of diamonds accentuates the ring and makes it more special.

Some important aspects need to be considered when choosing buying sapphire engagement rings as a pre-set ring or making it own or getting it custom-designed. Since both the precious stones are attractive, care must be taken with respect to the design that it is not too opulent but remains elegantly understated. Diamonds perfectly complement any color of the sapphires, but, the size and shape of the each of the gemstones needs to be carefully selected as these contribute greatly to the overall appearance of the ring. The sapphire stone in the ring is usually larger in size as compared to the accompanying diamonds and its shape too is kept more beautiful than the diamonds. Though this does not imply that the diamonds may be given a less careful selection, it means that in a sapphire engagement ring the sapphire must be the centre of admiration, and, hence, a need for a detailed attention to it.

Few ring designs for sapphire engagement rings have been presented here which if not found as pre-set settings at established gemstone jewelers may be custom-designed at a reputed jeweler: Round white sapphire three stone ring with princess cut diamonds (a simple non-fussy ring which retains its elegance and classic style, and where a cushion-cut sapphire stone would be equally beautiful); round blue sapphire and round diamonds bar channel set ring (another un-complicated ring design where though the shapes of all the stones are same, the size is different and the ring reflects understated elegance); square cut yellow sapphire with prong set diamonds (the combination of yellow and sparkling white colors is unusual and therefore uniquely attractive, giving this ring an ethereal charm); pear cut blue sapphire ring with pave-set round diamonds (the pear and round shapes give the ring a delicate appearance where the size of the diamonds is about six time smaller than the bright blue sapphire); round pink sapphire and tiny round diamonds (the warm radiance of pink sapphire surrounded by very small dazzling diamonds makes the ring a favorite among all the women); oval cut sapphire ring with round common prong diamonds (one of the common designs for engagement rings where two different sizes of diamonds are used); trillion cut navy blue sapphire with round diamonds set as an eternity ring (an exotic ring design with its dark color contrasting the diamonds); Princess Diana replica ring in yellow sapphire (an all-time favorite royal design with its immense popularity has given rise to beautiful variations) and emerald cut sapphire ring with pave set round diamonds.

Each of these magnificent designs may be set in yellow gold or white gold metal depending upon individual preference. It is suggested that few design options as these may be explored to take home the best sapphire engagement ring.
