If it's the most vogueish diamond jewellery and best quality loose diamond, it must be from Hatton Garden...

Having remained the centre of London's jewellery trade in medieval times, Hatton Garden even today is the most sought-after address among diamond jewellery connoisseurs throughout the United Kingdom as well as all over the world. While Hatton Garden loose diamonds are revered for their excellent cut, clarity, colour and carat weight, Hatton Garden eternity rings and jewellery pieces come with the assurance of being the best in terms of precision, designs and appeal.

Hearts of London Jewellery is Reasonably Priced

Over the past year, prices of precious diamond and gold have soared with no respite expected in near future as well. Consequently, the diamond jewellery that used to be costly has gone costlier than ever and virtually out of the reach of the commoners. Reportedly, many couples wishing to tie the nuptial knot have to compromise either on the quality or the size of the diamond or both. However, for the canny, there does exist a ray of hope in the guise of direct jewellers such as Hearts of London. Buying online from Hearts of London, clients can make a royal saving on their Platinum Wedding Bands, diamond engagement rings, eternity rings, and fine jewellery pieces. On the basis of comparable quality, Hearts of London engagement rings and other jewellery pieces tend to fall somewhere around half of the cost of those of the world's leading jewellery brands. Despite their goldsmiths having all the work on Bond Street, Hearts of London jewellery pieces don't carry the substantial brand premiums of their rivals.
