Education is vital for the growth of any country. It takes ages to make a nation into a developed country and a prosperous one; this cannot be achieved without education. “When you know better, you do better” is a famous quote said by Maya Angelou, an American poet, actress and an important figure in the American Civil Rights Movement. Literacy is indeed important but, there are several factors which need to be seen in order to get the desired results.

Technical education is also sailing in the same boat. In today’s date editing has become a new craze among the youth population of India. Film editing, video editing and sound editing are the next options students are trying to make their careers in rather than going for a traditional course of either engineering, doctor and lawyer. This field is completely diverse to all other fields as the work involved in it is as challenging as an engineer’s job. Sound technical education can fetch good rewards in terms of money and status, along with a few years of experience in hand; any candidate can make a good career out of it. The modern world is technology crazy and is always fascinated by the new developments which occur in every hour, minute or second.

Opportunities in digital and sound media have grown multifold and are still ranking in some of the best courses to choose from. Editing refers to selecting the best material for visual media, audio media, sound media, print media and film industry. The word may sound short and easy but the jobs in these lines are equally challenging as it requires full dedication and loyalty to the subject throughout their life in order to gain a good position in the world of media. Video editing, sound editing and audio-visual editing are some of the upcoming areas of interest which have made students to opt for courses related to video graphics, photography, sound modulation and many other factors. Editing is an indispensable tool of the media which can be used to create new content and make information and visuals more attractive and good-looking.

There are many courses available regarding editing. Gurukul Digital Arts and Animation Studio, Total Graphic Classes, Center for Research in Art of Film and Television, DQ School of Visual Arts, Delhi Film Institute, ITA School of Performing Arts, Bhartiya Vidya Bhawan (Delhi Kendra), Sri Aurobindo Institute Arts & Communication, Arena Animation and Media Success Academy for Training & Research are some of the best institutes providing quality education in editing.

Students can even pursue their choice of editing course further by getting a master’s degree which holds an important position in the industry. The initial salary and growth may be slow and a little frustrating at times but with time and knowledge, along with experience the growth in this industry is unstoppable. Therefore choosing other viable courses other than the traditional ones have become a trend which is changing the face of education. We wish all the students a very best of luck for their future prospects in these lines of careers.
