Inevitably, divorces surface strong emotions, like anger, disappointment, shame, fear and jealousy to name a few. Divorce commonly framed as an emotional and adversarial battle is complicated where you need the guidance and support of a trained, well educated, experienced professional to arrive at an economic and mutually agreeable resolution, most importantly, for the children.

And, if you believe that finding the best divorce attorney isnâ€™t a guaranty of the best result, what you should be doing is searching for the best divorce mediator. A competent divorce mediator will help you emerge from your dissolution with the least pain and the preservation of the most family funds.

Therefore, if you wish to end your marriage as cheaply and as painlessly as possible, do yourself a favor and heed a divorce mediator advice.

No obligatory Court appearance

Many of us have an impending fear of going to court that is closely linked to a fear of public speaking. A divorce mediator who is an attorney can prepare and file all of the paperwork for parties, through the mail, where no Court appearance is necessary.

It costs less

Itâ€™s about time and cost. The average mediation costs $4,000. By contrast, a divorce that goes to trial costs on average $78,000. For most American families that is unaffordable. So the first adaptation is to mediate, not litigate.

Emotions can be managed

Many couples simply want to be heard and understood in the divorce process. A mediator trained in counseling can assist the parties in acknowledging feelings but not allowing feelings to rule the decision-making process.

Less Stress

Suing your spouse to end your marriage has always been traumatic and emotionally-draining. When you use a mediator to help both of you communicate and make important decisions, it can be easier to move forward and accept the past, rather than turning hurt and anger into an expensive court battle. Mediation, as compared to litigation, is a walk in the park. Divorce mediators insist upon respectful, non-threatening communication and the entire divorce process turns out to be tolerant, enlightened, and downright refined as contrasted with traditional lawsuits.

If you wish to end your marriage as economically and as painlessly as possible, do yourself a favor and contact divorce mediators. The professional mediators will guide you through the process and you will save thousands of dollars and miles of heartache.
