About 90 per cent members of ATL, Association of Teachers and Lecturers have supported the revised pension bill, thrashed out after a one-day smack last year with some other teaching association. Association of Teachers and Lecturers is one of the lesser, other sensible teaching associations and stands for about 165,000 members, heads, and lecturers and hold the employee in Britain. The president of the association has stated that the members were pragmatists. The strike held last year was the first time in the history of association that the members took part in a protest.

Under the most recent agreement, teachersâ€™ pension offerings would still raise, but the association states that their pension vessel would increase quicker than the recent TPS, Teachersâ€™ Pension Scheme, due to the enhanced growth rate. It also refers to the fact that the teachers and lecturers would persist to be capable of getting retirement from 55 onwards, matter to a lessening in their closing payouts. The group of schools and college leaders and the NAHT (National Association of Head Teachers) has previously agreed on the agreement. On the other side, some other groups such as NUT, NASUWT, UCD and UCAC are not supporting the scheme and these all groups comprise of about 78 per cent members.

The members think that the teachers would do their job till the age of 68 for full pension benefit, make payment about 50 per cent more for the pension scheme and get the pension indexed by Consumer Price Index in place of Retail Price Index, reducing the worth of pension by 15 per cent. The General Secretary of Association Mr. Bousted has stated that the pension talks and negotiation the unions and the Government were extremely harsh. The government did not wish to make any concession and they had a harsh struggle to find a fairer agreement for teachers. It was only because of the member of association and other six unions which are very prominent in the UK. All the education groups were ready to display their potency of approach by selecting to go on strike and lobbying their MPs which they directed to compel the government to move its point and begin negotiation to find the revised offers.
