Article published on January 6th 2012 | Loans

In 2011, the rate of unemployment in United Kingdom was recorded at more than eight percent suggesting that more than 2.5 million job seekers were at the gate of the employment market. Sociologists have opined that higher rate of unemployment has created undesirable unrest in the British society in the recent years. Naturally, the jobless people are looking for loans of unemployed, against this terrifying spectrum, more than ever. Yes, United Kingdom has a tradition to support the people who cannot secure a job or who do not find any source of earning. It is widely accepted that the unemployed people should be assisted so that they can meet demands of daily life.

The loan seekers are to fulfill some conditions to be eligible for loans for unemployed. Citizens of Great Britain are only eligible and they are eligible if they have crossed 18. The finance providers send the loan amount electronically to the bank account of the borrowers. Therefore, the loan seekers must possess a valid and active checking account. The applicants must submit a certified document to confirm that they have been officially registered as employed. The loan application must contain their personal details so that the lenders can assess their economic condition.

The finance market tries to support the jobless loan seekers carefully. The loan amount, after the loan is granted, is dispatched to the bank account of the applicants within 24 hours. The eligible borrowers can fetch an amount up to Â£25000 if they apply for loans for unemployed, but the payable amount is fixed by the finance providers. They consider a few factors before the loan is sanctioned and before the payable amount is fixed. If the applicants have property of worth to place as a pledge, if they are prepared enough to secure a job in near future, what is their repayment record of the earlier borrowing, what actually is their financial status at present etc are taken into accounts before reaching to any conclusion.

Terms and condition for loans for unemployed are reasonable and favorable for the loan seekers. The repayment program is flexible and the rates of interest are fixed on the basis of what is practiced in the finance market.
