About Office Spaces for Rent: the Two Basic Types by Blake Mitchell

Article published on March 20th 2012 | Management

The fast and steady growth of the businesses has spelled a bigger demand for various types of office space rentals. Office space rentals have become very helpful for any business entrepreneur, ranging from those who are just starting to those who are looking to expand their existing ones. If youâ€™re looking for an office space in the VA area, it wonâ€™t be hard to find the ideal office space for y

Office space rentals have given many entrepreneurs the advantage they need in business. Aside from the affordable lease costs, office space rentals allow them to save on construction, operation, and maintenance costs because they wonâ€™t need to hire these services to keep the office space. Operational and maintenance services are generally provided for by the owners of the office space. These costs are usually included in the rent and are relatively cheaper than what it may cost the entrepreneur to actually hire out these services.

If you are looking for an available office space for rent, you should know beforehand that there are two types of office spaces: the conventional office space and the serviced office space. These office spaces vary greatly in terms of the amenities and features that the owner may include in the rental package. Depending on what you agree upon, each office space may have different and quite specific terms and conditions that apply.

Conventional Office Space â€“ This type of office space gives entrepreneurs total liberty to do anything with the space they are renting. Renting a conventional Tysons VA office space means you are only paying for the use of the space and nothing more. Although the rent is relatively cheaper compared with the serviced office space type, it will also require a larger work force because of the services that the entrepreneur needs, including planning and arranging the space, telephone and IT systems, furniture, cleaning, and utility bills, among others.

Serviced Office Space â€“ This costs more than the conventional office space because it usually comes fully furnished with basic office equipment and necessities. If renting a serviced Reston VA office space proves ideal to you, you might want to shop around and select a few serviced office spaces because the furnishings and amenities can differ drastically from one space to another.
