Article published on May 15th 2012 | Management

Want to file in for insurance claim but donâ€™t know which form to go for or have filled in the wrong claim form resulting in a delayed process. This generally happens when people are not fully aware of the concerned forms; if you too are the prey of this, then it would be a prudent advice to consult the experts and fill in hcfa 1500 which is specially meant for processing the medical insurance claims. A part of HIPAA these forms have standardized all medical insurance billing. Available in red and white these forms can be purchased from different suppliers as a single or multiple copies with continuous form feed or laser print with or without the barcode.

The type of form that you require also depends upon the printer type and your need to retain the original copy of the form or not. Most of the practice management systems are capable of printing these forms along with the claim but if in case you are using a color printer then it could pose a problem while submitting the form as it would get printed in red while the claim in black ink. Some of the insurance claim companies do not accept these forms that are not printed in red ink hence it would result in delay of your claim process.

While filling up the form different insurance companies provide you with different instructions of filling the form hence you need to be cautious so that you fill it in the same way as being directed. In case any information is missed out or is incorrect then it may lead to the denial of the claim. Insurance companies may also return back the incomplete or inaccurate form along with the explanation of the denial only in certain circumstances. Though these forms are meant for medical billing, but there are certain instances like for on job injury or workersâ€™ compensation claim these forms cannot be used.

These forms may vary from state to state and can easily be downloaded from the state workersâ€™ compensation website. These forms are accepted in hospitals, outpatient clinics and ambulatory surgery centers. They can even be submitted electronically instead on paper. As these forms are important to claim money from insurance companies, therefore be attentive while filling it up so that you get your rightful claim.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/management-articles/how-much-do-you-know-about-hcfa-1500.htm - Article Side

James Blee - About Author:
For more information on a hcfa 1500, check out the info available online; these will help you learn to find the a hcfa1500!

Article Keywords:
HCFA 1500

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!