Few features Sony Ericsson android mobile phones are coming with by Wilson Singh

Article published on July 13th 2012 | Mobile Phones

These days there are various companies which are working hard to make their customers happy and with no doubts Sony Ericsson is one of them. That's the reason that this company has suggested Ingram Micro as its second national distributer.

But increase in the list of distributers is not all what this company is concentrating on, in fact recently it has came with a brand new rang of products which are known as 'Sony Ericsson android mobile phones'. And we are here to discuss the same.

This company has recently introduced two new handsets in market which are named as Sony Xperia Miro and Sony Xperia Tipo. And in this discussion of ours we will cover some of the most basic features of the same.

The one which is known as Sony Xperia Miro comes with one of the most updated feature in it, in the field of technology, as it is here in market with a operating system which is known as android Ice Cream Sandwich. In fact if we look closely this is not the features which makes this Sony Ericsson mobile different, rather the method in which it has merged Ice Cream Sandwich and Facebook integrations is amazing. 800 MHz Qualcomm MSM7225A processor and a 3.5 inch display with TFT 320 x 480 pixel can be listed in some of the most basic features of the same.

If we talk about the price we can find that, this Sony Xperia Miro price is near to eighteen thousand approx, which makes it a perfect phone to look for, if you want a handset which is there with a different list of features yet in a middle category price. A front facing camera with a five mega pixel camera which comes with a 4x zoom and LED flash, connection to various social networking sites and few more are the features which will help you in making your life easy.

Starting with the new Sony Xperia Tipo, this new handset from the company has came with a idea to deliver something which is most updated in the filed of technology. But in an attempt of providing the best this company has not gone wild with the price as this new Sony Xperia Tipo price is some where near around fourteen Thousand rupees only.

Only in this little amount, what company is trying to deliver you is a Android Ice Cream Sandwich operating system with a 800 MHz Qualcomm Snapdragon MSM7225AA processor . Also this new Sony Ericsson mobile is per-loaded with few of the best app in market. In fact after havingÂ a look at this gadget you will realize that this tiny gadget with a total weight of 99.4g can do wonders in the field of technology. In a line we can say that there are no reasons to leave this gadget behind.
