App Store has never let me down, whenever I look for interesting apps. Anybody can find some great applications there, just by browsing through the â€˜Featuredâ€™ and â€˜Top 25â€™ sections. Howe the good apps cannot make it to these sections, as it needs some publicity. Therefore, we are here to introduce some interesting apps.

MultiTap Text: This is an app for the people who love the convenience of MultiTap layout for their mobile devices. MultiTap Text offers the big, numeric keypad that was in use before the arrival of iPhones and other smartphones (and of course, still they are in use and are popular). After typing the text, users can proceed by either sending it to their default email or SMS program, or copying it. MultiTap Text would be a must-have app for those who text a lot. We got a chance to check the beta version of this app and it looks really fine. I hope that developers will make the interface much more colorful in the future. This app is compatible with iOS 4 or later and it costs USD 0.99.

My Virtual Girlfriend: This is a great app to use during the season of Valentine. My Virtual Girlfriend comes loaded with a variety of virtual girlfriends and each of them has some individual characteristics to provide enough fun during â€œthe gameâ€•. After launching this app, it would ask the users about their personality and â€œthe desired personalityâ€• for their girlfriend. There are twenty levels and they need to advance step-by-step. These girls are really strict and never hesitate to dump, if the users try to take advantage too early. With a few more bad girls, this app could spice things up. As there are no â€œin-app purchases,â€• these girls are â€œmaintenance freeâ€•. It is compatible with iP iPod touch, and iPad and it requires iOS 3.1.3 or later. My Virtual Girlfriend costs USD 0.99.

Record Their Stories: This app has a unique purpose â€“ to let users set up and record personal conversations between relatives to make a story out of it. Before start recording, they can prepare the questions inside the app and it has a list of 100 questions to guide them through their way. Record Their Stories has some editing tools to crop out the needless areas to provide professional touch to the recording. Moreover, users can also avail the expertise of Fresh Air Production, the makers of Record Their Stories â€“ free service? Nope. Competitive price? Yes. This app would look even better, if the developers could make the â€˜Helpâ€™ area, a bit more elaborate. Record Their Stories is compatible with iPhone, iPod touch, and iPad and it requires iOS 4.0 or later. This app costs USD 0.99.

According to experts, 2012 will be a year of growth for the world of apps as our daily tasks involve at least a few apps these days. Since there are tons of apps out there, we have started introducing some good apps through our articles. We hope you would enjoy them and leave your feedback as comments.
