Iphone is among the most widely used gadgets. You may find a store near your home that will be dealing in iPhones. This can easily depict the popularity of the gadget offered by â€œAppleâ€•. There are many pros and cons of the device but no doubt that the features offered by the phone are really unmatchable to any of the other gadget available in the current market. Still it is really difficult to protect the phone as it is quite sensitive and a little jerk is enough to break its glass screen to highly glazing back. This will smash the look of the phone. Thus it is really important to take some precautionary measures if you want to use the device. The best advice for you is to use an iphone case so that you may provide necessary protection to the rear part and the front screen of the gadget.

Unfortunately, if the glass on the LCD layer has been broken then you do not need to worry because there are many ways to fix the glass. It is not so much costly to repair the glass of the phone. However, it will surely be worrying if the LCD layer has also been affected by the broken glass. This is due to the fact that it is really difficult to repair it and it takes a lot of money to do so. Iphone glass repair can be done following a simple method that will be discussed in the following passages. You can follow the method or may also take consent from a professional repairer.

It is really good that the company has fitted a glass known as safety glass. It will not smash when phone will fall to ground. However, it will break into pieces remaining into its own position. Most probably, this will save the LCD layer of your phone. There are some simple solutions to fix the glass. First is to visit an authorized iphone dealer and ask him to repair the glass. It will be quite easy for you but you will have to spend a lot of money in this way. Another way is to visit a private dealer who is not authorized by the manufacturing company. This will save some of your money but still it is unaffordable for many fellows. The third and the most affordable option is to follow the steps and repair the glass yourself.

Open the screws positioned at the bottom of the phone and remove the glass using the suction cup. Disconnect the screen and do not forget to turn the phone off before disconnecting the glass and LCD slot. Take an iphone replacement glass and fix it on its default position. Clean the metal frame from the small pieces that may be resent inside the frame. Now put back all of the things you removed from the phone and turn it on. Most probably, you will get a bright display as of a new iphone.
