This UK court has given strict instructions to the Samsung, that the company should not copy the Apple ipad in making the tablet because Samsung tablets are not as fresh as the Apple ipads. This judgment was declared under the judge Colin Biriss and has stated that the tablets of Samsung are certainly dissimilar to Apple tablets as they don't possess that tremendous ease of the Apple design. The judge also stated that if anybody would find that tablet cool then please let me know.

The judge when tries to make out the difference then watching the front view of the gadgets it was very striking but this was not sufficient to persuade the court and Samsung had changed the Apple's design. Samsung has given a warm welcome to the judgment as stated by the makers of Galaxy Tab which ensures that Galaxy tab have never disobey the rights of Apple's registered design. Since the decision proves that the beginning of Apple's registered design features can be easily accessible in abundant examples of previous art.

There are many comparable legal battles that are still going on and Samsung has stated that whether Apple would continue its habit of claiming the general designs and innovations of other country can be harmful moreover the consumer choice would be very restricted. Both these companies are locked in the legal battle in the court room regarding their blowers which consist of bans of a individual handset or tablet such as galaxy Nexus and the galaxy tab 10.1. The argument begins when Apple start accusing the Samsung regarding copying and the tablet packaging.

It is not only the Samsung who is bearing the force from Apple as Apple has come up with many patent challenges to many manufacturers such as HTC, Motorola, Android kit also the co founder Steve Jobs have announced a thermonuclear war in opposition to Android. In another patent dispute where a British judge gave the judgment in HTC favor and in the past weeks this was the second defeat for Apple in UK. Recently in a Dutch court the judge has ordered to Apple to reimburse Samsung. All this shows that the tide of the patent disputes is now rotating in opposition to Apple.
