Types of Cases for iPhone 4 by James

Article published on March 1st 2012 | Mobile Phones

Have you purchased iPhone 4 recently? Then you must be definitely thinking about purchasing some sleek designer iphone 4s cases in order to protect it from getting damaged due to accidental falls, isnâ€™t it? In this regard, let me tell you that these iPhone 4s covers are available in a wide range of designs and styles and offer complete protection to your phone. Moreover, today, the market is flooded with different types of iPhone 4s covers. Some of the popular ones include the following:

â€¢ Pouches: Pouches cover your iPhone completely in order to protect it from accidental scratches. Moreover, there are some pouches which have additional padding in order to offer complete protection against accidental shocks, falls or bumps. However, the limitation of these pouches is that you need to take out your iPhone from the pouch when you want to access it for making a call or for some other purpose.

â€¢ Shells: If you always keep your iPhone in your purse, pocket or laptop bag, then not much protection is required and hence, you can buy some stylish shells for keeping your iPhone. These shells are made up of a thin layer of metal or plastic which can protect it against minor scratches or bumps. The advantage of these cases is that you can access your set even without taking it out from the shell.

â€¢ Skins: This is a type of case made of silicone rubber or any other similar type of flexible material..

However, irrespective of the type of iphone 4s cover you plan to buy, always make sure that it does not obstruct the phoneâ€™s microphone, headphone jack, speaker, lens of the camera, light sensor, proximity sensor and dock-connector port. Moreover, check that the iPhone 4s cover fits your iPhone properly.
