Article Side

Food for the Ears: Convert YouTube Video to a Music File by Anita Sharma

Article published on April 13th 2012 | Music

Awarded as Time Magazineâ€™s Invention of The Year for 2006, YouTube has now become one of the usual name you can hear everywhere. It is basically a virtual place where everyone can upload their videos, may it be funny, sad or just a simple sharing of thoughts and opinions. It is also a haven of millions of music videos and a home to some great artist you might know. The only pit hole that I can see on YouTube is the fact that there is no direct way that you can download the files directly to your own computer or your mobile. Let say your friend uploaded a video and you want to save itâ€"there is no option for that on the site. If you happen to fell in love with one of the cover songs from one of the users on YouTubeâ€"no buttons available to do it. These problems have now been creatively resolved by a website called GetAudioFromVideo.com. You can now convert YouTube videos to a music file or even download it directly to your laptop or computer. You have read it right; downloading these files is now just like a walk in the park. So you can say goodbye to those software that takes a lot of time to be downloaded and installed. Say goodbye to the old school manual recording using your phone or any gadget. All you need is an internet connection and you are good to go.

I would like to highlight the idea of converting a YouTube video to a music file. There are good numbers of videos on the said site that cannot be found on other web addresses; concert videos, fan made videos and song covers from the users. Having the ability to transform a certain video to an audio file that is compatible with your mp3 players or your mobile is of great breakthrough. Imagine singers whose humble beginning is YouTube such that of Justin Bieber, Charice and Soulja Boy, early performances can now be downloaded. How about getting an mp3 of Lady Gagaâ€™s piano version of her songs or a Beyonce concert sound clip? This rare find music can now be transferred to your own gadget with just a snap of your fingers. You can also convert YouTube videos into other file format that is compatible to your gadget; mp4, AVI, FLV and WMV. This would mean that you can now watch the videos that makes you laugh anytime you want and listen to the songs you love the most.

Extracting files from YouTube has now been made easier and faster. You donâ€™t need to download software and install it to your computer as the complete tool that you need to convert YouTube videos to a different file is available online. You can now feed your ears with your choice of music. You have millions of options to choose from. Your music player will definitely come to life.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/music-articles/food-for-the-ears-convert-youtube-video-to-a-music-file.htm - Article Side

Anita Sharma - About Author:
Helping the world a Convert Youtube videos to music fileâ€"GetAudioFromVideo Development Teamâ€™s commitment. This breakthrough started as a college side project. The very reason they have made this project is that they wanted to share their favourite YouTube videos to their friends and families. The technology can now be enjoyed not just by those people that they know but the entire online population.

Article Keywords:
convert youtube, converter youtube to mp3, converter youtube mp3

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!