How Tamin Kim Achieved His Dreams by Colbert Raynard

Article published on January 24th 2012 | Music

Tamin Theodore Kim was a young man born and raised in the Philippines. He struggled deeply with his voice, but he had a dream of someday becoming a world renowned singer. Tamin Kim wasn't talented the way he thought, but he knew that with a bit more practice and a few voice lessons, his voice would improve and people would start to take notice. He decided to join a local singing competition in a place called Eastwood City. He knew that there was going to be a few weeks for him to prepare, so he took some voice lessons during that time.

His vocal coach was Andrew Uhm, and this guy helped him improve his voice rapidly over just a few weeks of lessons. Tamin Kim's voice improved so much, by the time he sung Guy Sebastian's Angel's Brought Me Here at the contest, nearly everybody was brought to tears. Nobody knew who he was, what he had gone through, and whether or not he was a naturally gifted singer. They just knew that Tamin was a kid who was gifted with a heavenly voice. Tamin knew that he never had such a voice, and that all of his success during that competition happened because he was willing to take a few voice lessons.

Most people in today's generation believe that you either have a certain gift or you don't. Of course, we are all blessed with certain gifts and capabilities, but Tamin proves that whatever you want to achieve in life can be achieved even if it looks impossible from your point of view. Tamin took secod place at the singing competition in Eastwood City, but Tamin didn't care. He knew that the impossible would become possible in any situation in his future because of what just happened to him throughout those weeks. Tamin is truly an amazing vocalist and one inspiration that everybody could look up to. Remember that any dream can be achieved no matter what, and whether it takes you five weeks or five years to achieve that dream, never give up; because you never know what could've happened.
