

Article Side

Use These Three Methods to Sell More Instrumentals on the Internet Now by Milo

Article published on April 9th 2012 | Music

It is no secret that some of the hottest producers in the world are still not on the mainstream music scene. However, getting noticed and getting the right recognition is something more than music. Quality just doesn't mean automatic fame anymore! You either have to know somebody or you have to figure out a way to market your beats to the millions of rappers worldwide. In person marketing is a thing of the past in this business. Luckily, this article is going to show you 3 ways to sell your beats online!

Community Websites

Rap communities are one of the best ways to sell your beats online. It doesn't take too much knowledge to market yourself and your beats on sites like Soundclick, Reverbnation, Soundcloud, Facebook, Twitter, and the hundreds of other sites, like emcee forums, that rappers commonly go to. I know of producers that make thousands every month from selling beats on Soundclick alone! If you get yourself out there on these sites, you can make good profit if your beats are hot. This method is probably between the other two methods in this article when it comes to the difficulty of the marketing.

Your Own Website

If you are worried about how hard the marketing is, you might as well skip this method. Even though the marketing will be hard, you have the best chance to make the most money with this method. If you want your site to succeed and to make money, you will have to research how to market a website online. Internet marketing for a website is definitely a long term process so you should probably try and do the other two methods while you are waiting to see results with your website! Believe me, selling beats on your own website is the most flexible and can bring in the most income, which is a common goal among Hip Hop producers!

Instrumental Selling Sites

The easiest method to sell beats in this article is definitely this method. Some examples of these sites are RocBattle and MyBeatShop. However, the main visitors of these sites are producers, which is easy to decipher since the point of these sites is to sell beats. Also, let's not even talk about the level of competition on these sites. Instead, you can apply for sites like Cheap Hip Hop Beats or 20 Dollar Beats and try and get on their team and put your beats on their website. They review applications and accept you as a producer on the team and they do all the marketing for you!

Making beat demos and doing work in person used to be the best way to sell your beats. With the rise of the internet, the whole Rap industry has been changed. The methods in this article are now the top ways to sell your beats and make money. Luckily, you don't have to limit yourself to just one of these methods. If you want, you can test out all the methods or just go with all three. If you get your beats out there in as many places as possible, you have better chances to make sales! Good luck with your production career!

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/music-articles/use-these-three-methods-to-sell-more-instrumentals-on-the-internet-now.htm> - Article Side

Milo - About Author:

Cheap Hip Hop Beats is one of the primary sites that producers can apply for along with sell their a Instrumentals online. Go to their page if you are interested! Additionally, you can look at this other a Beat Associated Article.

Article Keywords:

hip hop, beats, rap, instrumentals

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!