Gold fishes are one of the most beautiful fishes that most of us know in this world. It is called gold fish because it is gold in color. Goldfish is mainly found only in fresh waters and hence it also belongs to the category of fresh water fishes. These fishes have been domesticated from a very long time. These have been popular even from the ancient days. Today, you find many people having gold fishes in their aquariums at home. We would have seen people keeping gold fish in their homes. If we take a survey we can conclude that these species are domesticated at a very large scale. Looking back into the history of domestication, it is believed that these were first domesticated in china more than a thousand years ago. There are numerous breeds in goldfish and each of these breeds vary in size, shape, fin coloration. These fishes also appear in different shades such as white, yellow, orange, red, brown and black. All these breeds look very attractive.

As gold fishes have been existed since the ages, these fishes revolve around a myth as well. For instance these fish are considered for good wishes and people have a thought that if we have these fishes, then all our wishes also come true. As children we have heard about gold fishes and there are plenty of stories about these fishes fulfilling these wishes. I was watching one of the programs featuring in my television powered by ATT Digital TV. This program was all about fishes and one of the gentlemen was narrating this story about these species. The story is about an old man and woman who lived on the shores of a sea. The old man used to go for fishing on a daily and get home fishes for his dinner. One day he went to the shore and did not find any fish for a very long time. After a While he found something heavy, however, did not find anything except for a tiny fish in his net. This apparently was a goldfish. Hence he pulled the net and was about to take it home. For his surprise the fish spoke in a human voice and said to the old man not to take it home and it will fulfill all his wishes. The Old man did know what to do; however, he thought for some time and left the fish back into the sea.

When the old man returned home, the old woman cursed the old man for leaving the fish behind and asked him to go fishing again. So the old man went to the sea and called the fish. The fish stood front of him and the old man told the fish about the lady. The fish consoled him that there will be food at home. To his surprise when the old man went to find food at home for his dinner. The Old man was excited about this and wanted more and asked for a house, the fish brought them house, made the old woman a queen and so on. However, when the fish discovered the old woman had too much of aspirations which were beyond the limits they finally had to live the same way they were before. This incident ran into my head a number of times and moral states that if we are good then the goldfish can also full-ill our desires. Likewise, there are many other stories that relate gold fishes and its capacity to fulfill wishes. Try to get some of the stories and this could make you feel light reducing your stress.
