

Article Side

General Steel Building Company Fraud by Missing General Steel Products from the General Steel by Nathan Wright

Article published on January 6th 2012 | Others

Scams and con men are all over the world in many industries. The construction industry has a con man that is wrecking havoc. This con man is Jeff Wright and his company is called General Steel.

General Steel Building Company is completing fraud regularly. This firm does not discriminate and will cheat all potential clients. Even churches, serving Christian people, are being scammed by them.

Thousands of dollars have been lost in general steel products. Companies have made deposits of thousands of dollars to General Steel. None of these firms have received their promised General Steel.

The General Steel is a company of salesman in the building industry. Contrary to how they represent themselves, they are not constructors. They do not construct the building, but are only middle men.

The General Steel is brokers of different sized metal buildings. This unreliable firm has salesmen represent them all over the country. Many of these salesmen have come forward to share the fraud occurring.

Salesmen have shared they have been told to lie to potential clients. The lies are all in an effort to secure the sale of the building. Some salesmen have even fabricated other sales quotes from firms.

There is no limit to what General Steel will do to get deposit money. Deposit money is paid by clients of The General Steel for products. In most cases, clients are promised blueprints which never show up.

Clients have relied on The General Steel for many months to no avail. Money is tied up with them and they cannot get another contractor. Fraud gets their money and ties their hands and stops business.

Many businesses everywhere have been damaged from this terrible scam. One client who lost his business in a fire is still waiting. The livelihood of this client has been damaged by General Steel.

General Steel Building has not delivered on thousands of quotes. This amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars in products. General Steel Building has pocketed money and left clients hanging.

Clients receive little communication from General Steel Building. Most have requested their deposit money to be returned in full. However, none have been successful until a new dedicated group.

To combat General Steel Building a group has been established. This group organized to help those affected by General Steel Building. This professional group works with those scammed to get deposits back.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/others-articles/general-steel-building-company-fraud-by-missing-general-steel-products-from-the-general-steel.htm> - Article Side

Nathan Wright - About Author:

The General Steel Scam is a group dedicated to helping people recover deposits made on unfulfilled orders. This company has worked with many individuals who were scammed by a General Steel. These people invested thousands of dollars and never received a product. The General Steel Scam website works to provide information and keep others up to date of the litigation process. To find out more, go to a www.generalsteelscam.com.

Article Keywords:

The general steel, general steel, general steel building

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!