Roger Hamilton and Why the Tortoise Would Always Win by Corwin Smith

Article published on December 17th 2011 | Others

The story of the tortoise and the hare is very well known around the world. In fact this is one of those stories that is taught to the children at the very foundation years of there life. But by the time people start following the diktats of nature and continue to grow physically and mentally this one story silently meanders away from their minds. And the end result is that by the time they are well entrenched in their careers the tortoise and the hare are left behind in the story and the pages. And almost all the operations that the human being is involved in are based upon the needs and the desires that could be of their own making or could have been imposed upon them by the society or the system that they are operating in. But one man did not forget these two creatures and trusted with all his heart, mind and soul and the moral of the story. Roger James Hamilton is one man who really kept the characters alive and kicking and it was these two characters that led him out of the spot that he found himself in a long time back.

Call it luck or call it destiny or call it anything that can aptly define the situation and the location and the domain that Roger James Hamilton was an integral part of- the system of wealth creation. And it is this system that forms the spine of almost all the operations human being is involved in. And it was a blessing in disguise that this man had complete faith in the well taught system of wealth creation as well as world economics and the way it operates. All through the initial years of his life as an entrepreneur he allowed this education to guide him in almost all the actions and the decisions that he took during those eventful years. But then he realized that the system that he is following to the hilt is nothing more than that hare who is running as fast it could and at he finishing line it would see all around himself and realize that he has almost won the race and would go to sleep.

Roger James Hamilton focused his attention on the tortoise that moves as fast as it could but that fast is not enough to win the race. That fast is slow, but that fast is steady, and that fast is determined. And that led Roger to shift his focus to locate that tortoise in the world of wealth creation. And he found that tortoise in the role of nature that is the driving force behind all the activities man is involved in. That tortoise is the natural flow within the human being seeking wealth. And Roger made it a point to remove the faÃ§ade of the hare from the countenance of all the people involved in the art of wealth creation and bring out the tortoise (the natural flow) from deep within. And he has already proved it that it is this tortoise that would cross the finishing line, and not the hare.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/others-articles/roger-hamilton-and-why-the-tortoise-would-always-win.htm - Article Side

Corwin Smith - About Author:
For more information regarding a Roger James Hamilton, please visit a Wealthdynamics.org

Article Keywords:
Roger James Hamilton, Roger Hamilton

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!