If your dog or puppy has been diagnosed with heartworm, you likely understand how important it is to take care of the problem while it's still small, before it develops into something life threatening. Your vet may tell you that "heartworm" is a bit of a misnomer, since it doesn't actually live in your heart but rather in their lungs. It's still crucial to get the right diagnosis and the right care. With this in mind, your vet may recommend Heartgard, a popular heartworm medicine for dogs (and cats). Here's what you need to know about how Heartgard protects your pet.

How Heartworm is Carried

Heartworm is transmitted by mosquitos and typically affects dogs, but can also affect cats and in some rare cases, humans. Heartworm medicine, like Heartgard for dogs, treats and prevents heartworm by using a medicine which kills the parasites but is perfectly safe for your pet. In addition to killing heartworms, Heartgard is FDA and EPA approved to kill other types of worms like roundworm and whipworm.

Safe and Effective on Dogs and Puppies as Young as 6 Weeks

Heartgard for dogs is a highly rated, very effective heartworm medicine that can be used on puppies as young as six weeks. With something as prevalent in dogs as heartworm, it's important to start them early on the path to protection and prevention. Because Heartgard comes in a chewable tablet (you can buy either flavored or unflavored varieties), dogs enjoy it like a treat and have no idea they're taking medicine. This is important, as any pet owner can tell you, having to wrestle your dog to get him to take a pill, or dealing with messy applicators or shots can be a real pain!

Buying Heartworm Medicine Online

Another great benefit of choosing Heartgard is that you can buy it online and save money. While you will need your vet's prescription for the medicine, you don't need to buy it there, or at your local pet supply store. By going online, you'll also be able to order either a 6 or 12 month supply in many cases – saving you money, time (and gas) going back and forth to the big box marts. Plus, in many cases, you can qualify for free shipping or earn points toward a future purchase. Just be sure to shop at a trusted pet pharmacy that keeps your transaction and financial information secure.

Everything You Need to Give Your Pet a Life Full of Fun and Companionship

In addition to buying Heartgard, you may find that the online store you shop at also offers savings and discounts on the products you typically buy for your pet anyway – like food, toys, treats, grooming materials and more. The best part is, you can stock up and save on everything you need to keep your pet happy, healthy and active. Preventing heartworm with Heartgard for dogs is one highly recommended and effective way to do just that.
