As an owner and lover of pets of all sizes, I'm often asked by my friends how I can afford to keep all my pets happy, healthy and flea-free. I always tell them that I get discount pet meds online by shopping at reputable sites. Many people mistakenly believe that the only place to get pet medications is from your local vet. And while it's true that your vet may sell some prescription medicines, you only really need the actual prescription itself – and in some cases, you won't even need that.

Buying Pet Meds in Bulk

Several popular medications are available as over the counter discount pet meds which you can buy in increments like a 3 month, 6 month or yearlong supply. These include popular flea medicines like K9 Advantix and Frontline. You still may need a vet's prescription for other types of medications, but it's good to know that your furry friend can be protected for up to a full year. And flea medicine isn't the only type of preventative you can buy online. You'll also save money on other must-haves for any pet owner, including food, vitamins and supplements, grooming aids, travel gear and much more.

How to Make Sure You're Getting the Best Deal

Not all websites are created equally – and likewise, you want to be sure you're shopping at a reputable online store. There are certain things to look for when buying discount pet meds online. Look for helpful features like live chat which will let you speak to a customer service representative if you have any questions. Also keep an eye out for reviews and ratings from fellow pet owners as to how a particular product performs. Any website you shop at should be a licensed pet pharmacy and make it easy to order refills directly online. If you can get free shipping on your order – that will save you even more money.

Make Security and Privacy a Priority

Finally, doing business online means taking steps to protect your privacy and security. Be sure that the site you're shopping on uses state-of-the-art technology to encrypt and protect your financial transactions. Also take the time to read their privacy policy and find out about ordering and shipping times as well as how returns work. This will give you a good idea of when to expect your order, and what to do in case something doesn't work out (rare, but it can happen!) Some websites will even give you points on your purchases which you can redeem for other products – it works much in the same way as a coupon, except there's no need to waste time cutting out stuff.

If you're a new pet parent, be sure to take a look at the site's recommended products as well. The best websites will go beyond offering discount pet meds and work hard to ensure that your experience as a customer is flawless from start to finish.
