Article published on July 25th 2012 | Pets

Regardless of how much you love your darling dog; there would be a time when you have to leave him behind. There are places where pets are not allowed. In that case, dog boarding is the right option.

Before deciding and finalizing which pet boarding will be suitable for your doggy, take a tour to different boarding to before leaving him for an extended period of time. Keep in mind that dog might feel foreign or anxious staying in a new place. The pet sitters should have pet free and loving attitude towards your pet. Make sure they have a comfortable environment like a bed so that dog can take a peaceful nap. Do ask about the play time. During play time with other dogs should be supervised to reduce risk of injury or spread disease.

Personal attention is a must!

Some pets require exercise, some require walks and some require rest! Do make sure you inform the pet boarding about your dog eating habits, walking time, his interests and his fears. Make sure the host does give him his time and allow him to walk as long as he wants.

Take into account your petâ€™s interests before settling on a host or pet boarder and handling him over. For example, dogs that enjoy a good swim, the host can arrange for one so that the dog does have good time even if he is away from home. At the end of the day, all matter is dogâ€™s happiness and he should be healthy when you pick him back again.

Doggie Daycare

When you away for work and there is no one to take care of your pooch, you can drop him at doggy daycare. It works just like Day care for human babies. You just have to drop your dog off in the morning on the way to work, and while you away; your pampered pooch is pampered indeed! Doggy day cares do take care of the dogs. Depending on both your dog's activity level and the curriculum set out by the Day care owners, he may enjoy his day by playing with other dogs, playing with people, getting their attention and love.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/pets-articles/the-safest-place-for-your-dog-pet-boarding.htm - Article Side

Jercyjohn - About Author:

Come to petsitting.com for all your pet needs. The process of finding a good pet sitter, boarder, vet, trainer, walker and so many more are made easy with us. Our services are fast and efficient, and we have thousands of satisfied customers who will vouch for us. Take your first step to being a responsible pet parent with petsitting.com.
a Pet sitting

Article Keywords:
pet boarder , Pet boarding

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!