Many pet owners don't realize that they can get the same exact medicines that are sold at their vet or local pet supply store " directly online for less. However, you don't want to buy from just any website. Be sure that the site you're shopping at is a licensed pet pharmacy as those are certified to accept your vet's prescriptions. Oftentimes, you can also buy over the counter pet medications online. Not only does this save you time and money, but it also ensures you're getting some of the top name brands you know and trust.

Save Money by Buying in Bulk

By shopping for pet meds over the Internet, you'll be able to buy in bulk, which can save you money (and several trips to the vet) in the process. You can buy many well known brands of flea control, pet food, vitamins and supplements and much more in timeframes ranging from three months, to six months and up to a year. This means when "flea and tick season" is right around the corner, and your local vet's office is all sold out, you can rely on the ease of buying pet medications online while stocking up for next season.

Reliable Reviews and Ratings

Different products work for different pet owners, and it can be difficult to get a straight answer out of a local salesperson at your pet supply store. Online, you have the benefit of reading fellow pet owner reviews and ratings on nearly every type of product. This is a great way to learn about other people's experiences with pet medications online and how it worked for their pet. In some cases, you still need the prescription from your vet to buy online, but many times you won't " particularly for things like food, grooming kits and other essentials.

All Your Questions Answered

Finally, shopping online doesn't have to feel like a chore. The best sites selling pet meds aim to make sure your experience with them is professional from start to finish. They should display their ordering/shipping and returns policies in plain sight, along with details about how they handle your security and privacy. And if you still have questions, it's a good idea to shop online at sites that incorporate a live chat function so that you can talk one on one with a customer service representative.

Oftentimes, a site selling pet medications online will also let you qualify for free shipping if your order is over a certain amount. Sometimes you can also earn loyalty points with your purchases which can be redeemed for discounts on other items in the store. The points work like coupons, except you don't have to deal with cutting stuff out of the paper every weekend. It's all these small things that make shopping for pet meds over the web such a convenient, hassle-free experience, and one that I wholeheartedly recommend to any pet owner who is looking to save money, time and gas over visiting their vet or pet supply store.
