The winter is almost over the days are longer and the sun has been shining it will soon be time to come out of hiding we all like to stay in the winter and hide away until the sun comes out but when everyone is running out side it is still a great time for touch ups round the house and the odd jobs that you have been putting off all winter this is a great time to get motivated and get things done. This time last year i started my new garden I say new garden that is what it would turn out to be but in truth i had been planning to over hall the whole garden for about two years but last year I had a talk with a friend of mine and we decided that this is the best time of year to get things done those little or big thing you have been putting off because you donâ€™t really want to do them or you just canâ€™t seem to get motivated this is the time to get things done or even start a new hobbie it is the time of year when the days start to get longer and the sun starts to show its face the long days are great for getting things done and doing them in the sun is just a bonus. Some times when you are doing all these things you must get done you stumble on something you actually enjoy doing and can turn it in to a hobbie like me last year when I finally got my garden finished by the time i had got it to the point i wanted it I was quite the keen gardener and so it is not so much of a job but more a hobbie I love to do. Once I had my garden done it really didnâ€™t need that much attention so it seemed after taking over two years to get me to get up and get it done now it has been done i miss it so this year it was time for something new something i could do and see what i had done when it was done so it was time to move inside the house.

The problem when you head inside the house it can be less about hard work and time and effort and more about putting your hand in your pocket and spending money that most of us canâ€™t afford these days but my house didnâ€™t need any major work thank god or even decorating it just need brightening up a little so I talked to my friend again and he suggested I have a canvas print made for round the house as he had some done for his I had a look at the ones he had hanging around the house and they looked great and I couldnâ€™t believe how much of a difference the made to the house as canvas photo printing is very popular these days I had a look online and it didnâ€™t take long to find loads of places online that sell canvas prints.

you can have your photo on canvas or any picture you like or even start designing your own images for prints on canvas that is what I have done and that will be my hobbie for this year images on to canvas it is really fun to design your own art and see it hanging round the hose or even great presents and the best thing is the price there are so many people out there selling canvas photos you can get yourself a great deal so make sure you shop around, you see when you get up get things done you never know where it will take you i hope you have enjoyed this and take something from it.
