Canvas printing your photos on a few frames by Andrew Bourke

Have you ever thought about brightening up your living space with canvas prints, itâ€™s a truly and exceptional way to have your photos printed and the benefits of having a couple of canvas prints on one single wall can make that room look amazing, especially if youâ€™re looking for decorating ideas it can really make a big difference and can not only fill wall space that is needing filled but will give a perfect finish to any room, especially if youâ€™re going to have the traditional photo on canvas look as you can have your own personal photos printed onto canvas which can leave a really nice finishing touch.

One really interesting way to have your photo printed onto canvas would be to have 4 ways split canvas prints, you can basically have any number of canvas prints with one image divided over them to create a very funky and cool looking montage of canvas prints, this type of canvas printers split with one images is very popular now and not only does it take up the wall space to cover more ground for you but it look brilliant to, you can either have the one image split of some many canvas prints or you can have some canvas printing of different photos made onto a few canvas prints and put them together on the same wall which also give of a really stylish effect to.

If you do decide to have split canvas prints made then it might be a good idea to have a look at asking the canvas printer if they are able to keep the whole image on the face of the canvas and make more background for the sides, the reason I say this is because if you have the images so they are wrapped around the canvas you could risk losing important parts of your image to the frame and when they are all hung on the wall they might not all match up depending on the type of image, itâ€™s a people picture or a scenery image then it would be better to ask the printer to make more background to save you losing any of the image and they once they are all hung they will look perfect and they should merge and make one whole picture, one thing to remember when you donâ€™t have this type of canvas print made is that when you hang them up on the wall then try to leave a little gap in between all the frames which will give you a more superior look.

I hope that helps you in deciding what type of image to use for your canvas print choice and what effect you want to go for and having your photos printed onto canvas is a life last thing which is brilliant so getting your choices right before having them printed can make all the difference and you will like the fact that your canvas print gives you pride and joy every time you come to view it. Thatâ€™s what makes the whole experience very special.
