What would my images look like on canvas prints by Andrew Bourke

Article published on May 16th 2012 | Photography

Many people these days are buying canvas prints as a form of wall art for their homes and this trend is growing very fast. Canvas printing is a brilliant method of showing of your most prized photos and the reason this is would be because not only do they look great because they are printed onto a really good looking woven canvas and that they are framed over thick real wooden frames it also the fact that when you have your picture printed on canvas the inks will enhance your image and bring it to life even more than it originally had looked to begin with. This is one type of benefit of having your photos printed to canvas because if your photo is an old photo or even if itâ€™s a new one and has poor lighting or the colours are not that great you could ask the canvas printer before printing your photo on canvas to adjust a few different things like the lighting or contrast to get the best possible outcome of your print before actually printing it to canvas.

You can ask the canvas printers to amend your photos for you, thatâ€™s right and allot of canvas printer will offer image touch ups for free to with your order, thus being as long as there not too much work to be done as some of the other types of extras with the editing may be a little time consuming and a little charge may be applied before printing the photo to canvas. A couple of extras that should really be free that makes your photos a little more interesting would be having the photo changed in the colour of the way it looks to a sepia version of your photographs, if you did have the photo changed to sepia then this would give it and olden days type of look which has all the browns and creams in the colouring, this way you end up with a modern image that looks like too was taken back in time and this sort of canvas printing is becoming more and more popular when choosing what you would like your canvas prints to look like when you have then hung on your wall, this colour seems to blend in very well with allot of colour seems in your home decoration to. The other choice that would be free also would the black and white version, this has a similar effect but also gives of the professional photographer look that allot of canvas print customers love and you can see why as they really do look very modern and contemporise when hung to.

Many of us know that canvas prints will give your home that extra warmth feeling and all of us would benefit from having of image transferred to amazing canvas prints to and even if you was to purchase a small canvas print and have it hanging in your bathroom or a small outhouse you will see how much character it brings to that very room and just give that space a little more meaning and that in its own is something very special.
