There is a big difference between the concepts of traditional simulators and the golf simulator. There was a time when it was not possible for the golf lovers to go for golf simulator hire option. The main two disadvantages of using those traditional simulators were "gigantic size and exorbitant cost. The traditional simulators of the past were so huge in size that people could hardly move them from one place to another. Moreover, the transportation cost for the same was also very high. As a result, in many cases people could not afford to hire the same.

Another thing that mattered for the customers was the intricate installation process of the golf simulators. People could never use this for their home as the structure of the house needed to be modified to install the simulator. It is quite clear that the lengthy process of changing the structure is not feasible for hiring a golf simulator and that too, for a few days. However, the advanced technology has solved the problem very easily and now portable simulators are introduced in the market. As the name itself indicates these simulators come in comparatively smaller sizes but the features are highly commendable.

Firstly, its portability has made it possible to move the simulator from one place to another. The entire process related to set up requires lesser amount of time to get the job done. Since the size is small, it does not require much space and hence can be installed anywhere you desire. Therefore, if you are a dying fan of golf simulator it is no more a problem for you to hire the same. You can even invite some of your friends to share the happiness with them and can throw a small party as well.
