Why clear computer history?

Actually each time you use your computer, your computer will record all your activities, especially for the visited websites, such as the images you seen, the files you downloaded, and the things you bought and so on. So for somebody who can access to your computer, your privacy will be threatened. Here these records are also computer histories.

Besides, over time, these histories will accumulate more and more, and obviously it will take up a lot of your computer space, which will greatly affect your computer speed and performance.

How to clear history on computer?

According to your browser, please choose the proper methods:

To remove history in IE, go to the Tools menu and then select Internet Options. From the Browsing history, click Delete button. Guarantee that History is chosen in the dialog that appears. Finally picking Delete button is ok.

To eliminate history in Firefox, visit Tools menu and then click Clear Recent History. Now a dialog will pop up, from it, you are able to select a Time range to remove. To remove all history so far, you can select everything from the drop down and click on the Clear Now button.

To clear history in Opera 9, also turn on Tools menu and go to the Remove Privacy Data. Pick the Details option and then choose all the histories you desire to get rid of. In the end, click Remove button.

Meanwhile, you may know that Windows saves the tracks regarding your computer activity to be able to provide you with a more enjoyable computer experience. However, more and more histories will decelerate your computer. Therefore you should remove Windows history regularly. Click on the Start menu and visit All programs to gain access to all programs in the systems. Choose Run in Windows menu and switch on the Datastore folder that consists of all files associated with Windows updates run previously. To take away history, you will have to remove all of the items in the folder. Finally remember to restart your PC.

Well, some history can't be removed by hand without special software, such as index files, so you had better find cleaner tools to help you clear history on computer.

If you would like to get a high speed Internet and protect your privacy you ought to do the clean work regularly. Therefore the methods above are worth to try.
