Submit PAD File to Promote Software and Website by Josephine Yang

Article published on December 13th 2011 | Seo

Many software authors may think their job is simply programming and coding. So they very likely do not know how to put their product into the market and make it popular. Even though they designed good software, the sale is still poor. Then how to expand your market share? The answer is to submit PAD file to download sites.

Why submit PAD file?

When software authors wish to submit their software to numerous download sites, directories or other targeted resources, there will be a standardized format used to include all the details about the program. Here a file in this format is known as a PAD file which uses fundamental XML markup to keep details about the program, such as the size, the title, the download URL, price, contact information and so on.

Well, most download sites or directories just accept PAD files directly. So with it, there is no need for software authors to complete lots of different forms.

How to submit PAD file?

Nowadays, with the development of Internet and science, the best way is to simply submit PAD file to download sites automatically rather than posting software manually any more.

If you are still submitting your PAD files manually to download websites night and day, then you are really out. Manual submission is very slow because it can only submit your product to one site at a time, and the submission always fails because you do not know the submission rules of a certain download site. In addition, there are thousands of download sites await your software, obviously, manual submission would waste your lots of time. All in all, you have to do PAD file submission with submission software.

Because of the mixed market, finding proper submission software is not so easy. Maybe you can try to use PAD Submit Worker that has already utilized by tens of thousands of people. PAD Submit Worker is not only a submission tool; it is also a PAD generator. It offers you the ability to automatically create PAD files by completing all the required fields easily. Besides, you had better complete some special site settings, because this will directly boost the rate of submission. At the same time, you can also select the sites you desire to submit with a filter. With it, I believe your life will be changed dramatically.

Action! Do not hesitate. If you want to increase your software sales and save your time, just try it.
